City of Nal'chik, Kabardins-Balkarian ASSR

1. The majority of Nal'chik's population consists of Kabardinians who have been divided into two religious groups - Greek-Orthodox and Moslims. The second largest group are Russians, followed by Armenians, then Jews. The latter were housed predominantly in the so-called "Jewish Colony" (Yevreyskaya Koloniya), a large old settlement in the south of the city. There are no mosques in the town and only one Greek-Orthodox church on Pyatigorskaya Street.

When the Balkarians were deported from the Caucasus for their loyalty to the Germans, the Moslim Kabardinian population of Chernorechenskiy (?) Rayon (10-15 km. from Nal'chik) was also deported to Siberia along with the Balkarians.

2. The city conducts an extensive construction of new 4-5 story high apartment and state establishment buildings. Construction is being executed on Baksanskoye Shosse and other outskirts of the town. In recent years, a new settlement called Aleksandrovskiy has been established in the western part of Nal'chik, on the road to Nartan. Especially extensive construction has been underway at Prokhladnenskoye Shosse. [] there are plans to merge Nal'chik to another big industrial center of Kabardins-Balkarian ASSR, Dokshukino, which is located on the same highway 20-25 km. from Nal'chik.

Construction and re-construction of Nal'chik is being conducted by Trest Kabardinstroy (Kabardinian Construction Trust), offices of which are located on Pochtovaya Street. Director of the trust was Aleksandr POPOV, about 45 years old. The trust was subdivided into two departments (upravleniye), numbered #1 and #2 accordingly. First department employed some 500-600 workers. It was sub-divided into sections (uchastok) each headed by a superintendent (nachal'nik uchastka). Uchastok included several construction objects (obyekt) with a special number assigned to each object. The object was supervised by a prorab (job supervisor) and a master (foreman). []

[] The object crew consisted of one bricklayer brigade (about 30 men), one plasterer (shtukatury) brigade (20 men), and one supporting brigade (25-30 workers) of unskilled helpers, some of them females. After completion of the fire station, this crew constructed a 5 story high school building in Aleksandrovskiy Poselok.

The names of the streets were indicated on plates mounted on respective corner houses. The houses on one side of the street were numbered even and on the other side uneven.

The city streets are well illuminated; the main streets by a system of ferroconcrete posts located along the pavement, each post having two lamps on a cross-bar; the secondary streets are illuminated by a system of steel posts each having one light at the top.

4. The southern part of the city is occupied by a large Park of Culture and Rest, referred to by everyone as "Dolinskiy Park". Located here are numerous rest homes and sanatoriums of Nal'chik - popular as a resort center of the Soviet Union. The park has summer movie and theater houses, four swimming pools, and a dancing stage. Also located on the park proper is the sole hotel of Nal'chik, a four-story building with a restaurant on the first floor. The Nal'chik River, 5-6 meters wide, flows thru the park and the city. [REDACTED]

5. Electric power in Nal'chik is provided by Baksan GES located about 40 km. north of the city. The sub-station is located in the vicinity of the state farm "Plodoyagodnaya Stantsiya". Each city block has its own transformer booth. Irregularity in power supply arises occasionally in the winter months.

6. Water is adequately supplied to all private and state-owned houses. There also are public taps in almost every city block with no charge for water here. Consumers of water delivered to the house pay monthly fees to the city. The water pumping (vodokachka) and purification plant is located in the northern part of the city, near "Plodoyagodnaya Stantsia".
7. Sanitation. All state-owned and new apartment houses have modern sewerage systems. The majority of private houses still use pump and tank trucks which dispose of their contents at the city dumps near Aleksandrovskiy Poselok. In the same dumps, garbage which is collected by city-owned trucks from garbage bins located in each courtyard is disposed.
8. Post, telegraph and telephone building is located on Prospect Lenina.

Radio station, with two or three towers, is located near Voyenkomat on Pochtovaya Street.

The newspaper "Kabardinskaya Pravda" is printed in Russian.

9. Transportation. The city of Nal'chik has no streetcars or trolleybuses. There are 4 or 5 city bus lines. The bus fare from Chegemskaya to Dolinskaya Street (north to south thru the whole town) is 1.30 Rubles.

The out-of-town bus service station is located at Vokzal'naya Ploshchad' at the railroad terminal. Out-of-town buses leave for and arrive from Ordzhonikidze twice a day. The fare one way was approximately 25 Rubles. The bus schedule to Pyatigorsk called for four buses a day between 0600 and 1800 hours. The fare was 19 Rubles one way.

It is also possible to hire a taxi to Ordzhonikidze for 45 Rubles and to Pyatigorsk for 42-43 Rubles. The main taxi stand also is located at the railroad terminal square. Taxi cabs are equipped with meters. The approximate fare (1 Ruble per kilometer) is about triple of the bus fare.

Nal'chik had one non-electric track connection to the Prokhladnyy railroad junction. Passenger trains from there arrived in Nal'chik twice a day - at 0600 and 1630 hours, and left for the return trip after a brief stop. This train stopped in Dokshukino - Mayskiy - Kotlyarevskogo - Prokhladnyy. One-way ticket from Nal'chik to Prokhladnyy is 9 Rubles. The Nal'chik railroad terminal is a small one-story building, usually locked up at 2400 hours daily.

10. Roads. The best out-of-town road is undoubtedly the Military-Georgian Highway which runs as follows: Pyatigorsk - Nal'chik - Nartan - Stanitsa - Cherek - Stanitsa Lesken - Stanitsa Urikh - Elkhotovo - Ordzhonikidze. This is a two-lane, asphalted highway. The only other out-of-town road [redacted] is the two-lane unpaved highway to Prokhladnyy.

General:

1. The city of Georgiyevsk is situated at the beginning of the plain on the northern outskirts of the Caucasian Mountains. [REDACTED] the city's population before the war was 46-47.000 but that it probably has doubled since [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] In addition to the Russians (so-called Cossacs) who made up the majority of the population, representations of several caucasian nations lived there [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
2. Most of the city buildings are made of "samان", a kind of brick made of clay, straw and animal manure. Some buildings are plastered on the outside with one layer of the regular burned bricks. The roofs are made of cherepitsa (tile) or, on more recently constructed houses, shifer (roofing slate). There are also some but not too many wooden pre-fabricated houses (finskiye doma). Most of the 2 or 3 story buildings presently occupied by governmental institutions are of pre-revolutionary construction, made of stone or brick and roofed with galvanized iron or tiles. [REDACTED] there was not a single house in Georgiyevsk over four stories high.
3. The new house construction is performed predominantly around the city factories and plants which erect two and three story apartment houses and settlements for their employees. Among those industrial installations are the canning factory, the tile and brick factory, the fittings works (armaturnyy zavod). Thru continuous expansion, the city will merge in the very near future with its industrialized suburbs: Nezlobnaya village [REDACTED] on the road to Pyatigorsk, 6 km. out of Georgiyevsk, a settlement consisting of oil storage, flour mills, tile and brick factories, new military barracks; and Krasnaya Kumka village, on the road to Budennovsk, 6 km. out of Georgiyevsk, consisting of a brickyard, silk spinning factory, meat-packing plant, and old military barracks.

Two first aid (skoraya pomoshch') automobiles, one sedan and one delivery truck, are usually stationed at the polyclinic yard.

The passport had to be submitted at the hotel desk and was returned to the owner at the time of the latter's check-out. [REDACTED]
- [REDACTED] The house was owned by an elder lady who rented two rooms furnished with 6 beds which she rented to guests for 5 Rubles per night, per bed. The beds were also the same kind of military koyka as used by the hotel. The owner of the guest house did not ask [REDACTED] for any identification papers [REDACTED]
- [REDACTED] in the same circumstances it is also an easy task to get overnight accommodation in Georgiyevsk. One only has to drop in at any private home and inquire where he can obtain a room for an overnight stay and he will be directed to a home.
16. In order to find an apartment or room, one had to go to an establishment on Lenina Street which, according to the description given [REDACTED] could be sort of an information bureau. Next to this bureau, on the wall beside the door, there is a bulletin board where house owners place adds about apartments and rooms for rent. [REDACTED] there were always many vacancies in town. Here the clerk, for a charge of 1 Ruble, filled out an application form (blank) and made an entry into domovaya kniga (house log). Then it was necessary to go to the State Bank which was open every day, except Sunday, until 1200 o'clock, and buy a 3 Ruble stamp. After this, one had to take the stamp, house log and application forms to the passport desk of the militia on Pyatigorskaya Street. Both the Soviet and foreign citizens were registered in the house 25X1 log. Soviet citizens were required to submit only one application and to purchase the 3-Ruble stamp from the State Bank, which was glued into the house log and sealed with the militia seal. However, foreigners were required to submit three special forms which were marked by a bright colored strip across the page from corner to corner diagonally. The stamp for foreigners was placed on one copy of the application form, not in the log as for Soviet citizens, and sealed with the militia seal.

18. It is possible to reside at a private house for a period of several weeks without any registration whatsoever at a charge of 50 Rubles a month per koyka. This may be done if a boarder does not arouse the landlord's suspicions as to his identity and if he can adequately support his reasons for avoiding the registration. [REDACTED]

19. It is very difficult to obtain dwellings at state-owned apartment houses (ZHAKT) due to the fact that they are more comfortable and much cheaper than ~~in~~ private houses. The rent was charged by the number of square meters occupied, price of which was not known [REDACTED] but [REDACTED] one family [REDACTED] paid 31 Rubles per month for two medium sized rooms. For the same dwelling in a private house the charge would be 200-250 Rubles and 150 Rubles per month for one room. In both cases, utilities are paid in addition to the rent by the tenant.

Restaurants, Stores, Markets:

21. There were many snackbars and stands in Georgiyevsk, but only one restaurant of Gortorg (City Sales) located in the first floor of the hotel building. This restaurant was open daily from 0700 to 2200 hours. [REDACTED]

At one time a band played at the restaurant but lately it has not been there. Wines and liquors were sold by bottles only (no servings by the glass or by gram). Beer was sold in steins (kruzhka), 2.60 Rubles a stein.

22. In addition to a number of grocery and manufactured goods stores, the city had one department store (univermag) located next to the restaurant described in Paragraph 21. The stores in Georgiyevsk were open daily from 0900 to 2000 hours with a lunch break from 1200 to 1400 hours. Clothing, footwear, furniture and appliances were in sufficient supply, except for television sets which were difficult to get. [REDACTED] most of the clothing 25X1 and footwear were of foreign origin; the clothing was imported from China and the footwear from Czechoslovakia. Some food stuffs such as butter and sugar were hard to obtain, and this caused queues in front of the respective stores. Sometimes, local people were forced to go food shopping in Pyatigorsk and Kislovodsk, which, as so-called "kurortnyye mesta" (resort places), had a better grocery supply.

[REDACTED]

Many people bought food stuffs at the local market where during the summer prices were even lower than the prices set in the stores.

23. The market occupied a city block between Kalinina and Nezlobinskaya Streets, and Pushkinskaya and Pionerskaya Streets. It was surrounded by a heavy brick wall with one gate on each street. Most of the time the entrances were observed by a militia man responsible for keeping order and prosecution of any attempts at black-marketing which was not popular anyway due to the fact that for every petty offense, such as the re-selling of a new suit acquired from the state store, would be punishable for up to 5 years in prison. The gates to the market are open from 0500 in the summer and from 0600 in the winter. The market is composed of table-like stands, 1 x 2 meters, made of a concrete and sea shell combination, which are in the open. Meat stands are accommodated in a barrack-like building. In order to reserve a stand, especially on so-called "market days" (Sundays and holidays) one had to line up in front of the market superintendent's office as early as 0400 hours. Farmers had to produce a certificate from their collective farm certifying the origin of their wares for sale.
24. Rent for one stand at the market is 2 Rubles per day, the weighing scale issued by the market office (no use of own scales is permitted) cost 100 Rubles deposit and 3 Rubles per day for the use. The apron, also to be obtained from the market office, cost 1 Ruble per day. Farmers selling from the trucks were permitted to use their own big scales. If one was going to sell meat, it must be inspected in the veterinary office located near the market and the seller had to accept the services of the market's meat-cutter who charged 1 Ruble for each kilogram of meat cut by him. There was a refrigerated warehouse where the unsold meat could be stored overnight for 50 kopeks per kilo, and a regular warehouse for other unsold goods for overnight storage at a charge of 1 Ruble per piece (mesto) disregarding the size or the weight of it. Farmers staying in town were accommodated at the hotel or in private homes - there is no "Dom Kolkhoznika" (Home of the Farmers) in Georgievsk.

- b. Secondary (srednyaya) School #1, former "gymnas~~ic~~" school, constructed in 1912, on Pushkinskaya Street.
- c. School near the post office.
- d. School near the Greek-Orthodox Church, on Novaya Street.
- e. Secondary School #3 on Lermontova Street.
- f. Vocational Training School (former FZO) - remeslennoye uchilishche - near the market.

There are no schools of higher learning or military schools in Georgiyevsk.

Churches:

27. There are two Greek-Orthodox Churches (one on Krasnoarmeyskaya Street near the canning factory and the other on Novaya Street) and one Baptist Church (on Krasnoarmeyskaya Street) in the city. The churches are visited by older people only. The Moslem Mosque and the Greek Orthodox Cathedral were demolished in the 1930's. On the former location of the cathedral, the foundation of the new House of the Soviets, described in Paragraph 10 above, was laid..

Water Supply:

28. The water pumping station and the water storage are located on Zakavkazskaya Street (near Krasnoarmeyskaya Street), near the river described in Paragraph 4 above. Next to the old water pumping station, a new pumping station is being constructed by the Fitting Works (armaturnyy zavod) at the present time. In general, the city has been sufficiently supplied with water, except for a few hours a day in the summer. There are water taps (krany) in each yard, and the newly constructed houses have also a tap in each apartment. In addition there are water taps (kolonki) on the streets, one tap for every few blocks. These street taps constitute a low column-like construction with a handle on the top of it. This handle, when depressed, opens the water flow. There is a standard charge of 73 kopeks per person per month for the use of city water, payable to the Water Supply Department of Kommunkhoz, located in the yard of the local power station. The construction of water lines for the new streets on the city outskirts had just begun.

Sewerage System:

29. Until recently there were no sewers in Georgiyevsk. Small private homes, which constitute the majority of town dwellings, had wooden latrines over dug-out holes in the ground. Whenever one hole was filled up, the owner covered it with top soil and dug out a new opening over which he put the same wooden latrine. The ZHAKT-owned houses had lavatories in the apartments or, in the case of smaller houses, one common lavatory in the yard, usually next to a wooden garbage disposal box. These lavatories were emptied according to needs by tank cars equipped with pumps. These cars were maintained by the Sanitary Department of Kommunkhoz. The city dump where the garbage and sewerage cars were emptied was located about 2 kilometers from Georgiyevsk on the highway to Mineral 'nyye Vody.

30. In 1959 the construction of a centralized sewerage system was begun. [redacted] concrete pipes of about one-half meter 25X1 in diameter was laying on many city streets and the digging of trenches had already started.
31. [redacted] the following public lavatories in Georgiyevsk: 25X1
- a. Next to the House of Culture
 - b. Across the street from the polyclinic on Lenina Street
 - c. At the market
 - d. At the railroad station.

Power Supply:

32. The local power station, one-story building with a glass front wall which allows a person to observe the work of the generators, is located on the corner of Pushkinskaya and Pervaya Lineynaya Streets, crosswise from another corner building which accommodates the local bus terminal. On the compound of the power station (the entrance from Pushkinskaya Street) are also situated the warehouse, a completely isolated transformer booth, and the office where local citizens pay their water and electricity bills. There are many smaller transformer booths with a death's head painted on them in the streets; there are some on Komsomol'skaya, Krasnoarmeyskaya, Ul'yanovskaya Streets. [redacted] there was approximately 25X1 one transformer booth for 2 or 3 city blocks.
33. Power is supplied from Baksan GES. [redacted] not indicate the alignment 25X1 of the high-voltage power line but [redacted] this line, constructed on steel towers with 3 finger-thick wires, ended on the compound of the local power station. The current was 220 volts, alternating. Before Baksan GES began to supply the power to Georgiyevsk (the date could not be identified [redacted]) which normalized the electrical supply, there were many irregularities. On these occasions the town was frequently cut-off electricity for 2 to 3 days a month. At the present time the power supply is adequate and there are no limitations whatsoever for the use of electrical appliances, either day or night, providing the user possesses a meter. The charge for one kilowatt is 40 kopeks. [redacted] 25X1 [redacted] the charge per one kilowatt is somewhat different for stores, 25X1 artels and government installations but could not elaborate on this subject. Some homes and apartments do not have separate meters. In this case the users have to pay 5 Rubles per month during the summer for each light bulb of a certain wattage, and 6-7 Rubles per month during the winter months. Subscribers without meters are not permitted to have any wall outlets or to use any electrical appliances.

Communications:

34. Radio and Television. The radio station (closed circuit) is located on [REDACTED] or 49 Pushkinskaya Street, next door to the chicken incubator office, in the vicinity of Krasnaya Street. There are two medium sized antennae on the compound. The local station usually transmits the broadcasts from Moscow and Stavropol'. The charge for the use of radio sets was 5 Rubles per month. [REDACTED]

25X1

Some of the local citizens had television sets which were usually very hard to procure at the market. The nearest television station was located in Pyatigorsk with a transmitting antenna [REDACTED] 1 kilometer high) erected on the top of Mashuk mountain.

25X1

35. Post, Telephone and Telegraph Office. Located on the corner of Oktyabr'skaya and Nezlobinskaya Street, in the vicinity of the city market. [REDACTED]

25X1

36. Telegrams could be sent from the post office counter either regular (prostaya) or the express (molniya) way; the charge for express telegram was higher than for the regular [REDACTED]

In order to send a telegram, one has to obtain a blank form at the counter and fill it out with addressee, text, and signature and the return address of the sender. There is no charge for the return address of a sender and no documents are required by receiving the above mentioned form or by sending a telegram.

37. Telephones. [REDACTED] there are not many [REDACTED] private citizens of Georgiyevsk who own one. However, it was not difficult to obtain a telephone at the rate of 30 Rubles per month. Private homes and state enterprise telephones were the kind without a dial, by lifting the receiver one would automatically be connected to a city operator (tsentral'naya) who would establish the contact desired. Public telephone booths (budki) had dial-type telephones. Only 10 kopek pieces could be used. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] the following public telephone booths in the city:

- a. Inside the Savings Bank (Sberkassa) on Kalinina Street across the street from the market.

38. Long Distance Calls could be made from the post office. There were two booths, #1 and #2, for this purpose. One had to place a request for a long distance call approximately 24 hours in advance. To place the request, it was necessary to give the number and name of the desired party, and the first and last name and the address of the caller. If the caller did not know the number of the party he was calling, it could be produced by information service for an additional charge. No documents and no advance payment were required for arranging a long distance call. By placing a request, one obtained a receipt and paid for the conversation time at the counter after the call was completed.

one call to Pyatigorsk

8 Rubles for 3-4 minutes

there were also so-called "scheduled" (poraspisaniyu) contacts with Moscow via Stavropol'. They are only on certain days and at certain times when a call can be made without previous arrangements.

Transportation:

39. There is neither a civilian nor a military airport in Georgiyevsk. The nearest passenger airport is in Mineral'nyye Vody [redacted] There also are no streetcars nor trolleybuses in Georgiyevsk. The means of transportation consists of taxi cabs, buses operating as local, suburban and long distance lines, and the railroad system.
40. Local Buses. There is only one town route, so-called "kol'tsevoy" (ringlike) going by way of Krasnoarmeyskaya-Yessentukskaya-Krasnaya-Pushkinskaya-Krashoarmeyskaya. This line operates 4 buses, 2 clockwise and 2 counter-clockwise, leaving every 15 minutes. In 1958 the small buses of the old type were exchanged by big new buses of "L'vevovskiy" factory production, with the motor in the rear. The bus crew consists of a driver and a konduktorsha, a lady who sells the tickets from rolls which hung on her neck. The Konduktorsha was seated in a special booth by the entrance in the rear of the bus (the exit was thru the front door). She had a coin changer attached to a belt. The tickets were of 15, 30, 45 and 60 kopeks denomination. They were of greyish and yellowish colors, but Source does not recall the color of each denomination. The fare between each two stops was 15 kopeks; the fare for one tariff station (tarifnaya stantsiya), which included 4 stops, was 30 kopeks. The fare for the whole route was 1.20 Rubles. There were no monthly or any other kind of special rate tickets in Georgiyevsk. The office and the bus park of the city bus company was at so-called "Avto-kolonna" (Auto-park), probably, some State Auto Park, located on Kalinina Street opposite the city market.
41. Taxi Service. The taxi park is located in the lot of the bus terminal on the corner of Pushkinskaya and Pervaya Lineynaya Streets (see below for details on bus terminal, Paragraph 43). There were about 10 taxi cabs in Georgiyevsk, all "Pobeda" make, with checkered black and white strip below the lower edge of the windows. At night the cabs are indicated by a glimmering blue light bulb over the front windshield. The cabs were equipped with meters, and the charge was 1.50 Rubles per one kilometer. The taxi stand is in front of the market on Kalinina Street, near the "Avto-Kolonna", also there is a taxi stand at the railroad terminal where the taxis go during scheduled train arrivals. In order to get a taxi cab, one has to walk to the taxi stand unless one catches an occasional cab passing by. There is a possibility of ordering a cab by telephone, but Source could not elaborate since he never experienced this. One can also request a cab to any desired place at any time by making direct arrangements beforehand with the cab driver. Taxis also made out-of-town trips to the neighboring cities. The fare for a taxi load from Georgiyevsk to Pyatigorsk was 60 Rubles being paid by either one passenger or this amount divided by the number of passengers. The number of passengers to a cab could not exceed 4. Tipping was not compulsory but was desirable. No details regarding the amount of tips could be provided by Source.

 - c. To Krasnaya Kumka, 6 km. from Georgiyevsk.
 - d. To Obil'noye, 15 km. from Georgiyevsk; fare - 5 Rubles, one way.
 - e. To Soldatskoye (probably, Soldato-Aleksandrovskoye) via Kuma railroad station.
 - f. To Novo-Zavedennoye.
 - g. To Nezlobnaya from the Georgiyevsk railroad station.

All the buses of the above mentioned lines departed from the bus station on Kalinina Street near the auto park opposite the city market, except the line from the railroad station to Nezlobnaya.

[REDACTED] all these buses left "po nadobnosti" - when the necessity arises, whenever there were enough passengers to make the trip worthwhile. The bus station, a small wooden shed, had a ticket counter and a waiting room. At one time it had a snackbar (bufet) but this service was discontinued in recent years. There are no konduktorsha on these buses and the tickets at the stops on the way are sold by the bus drivers.

43. Long Distance Lines. The bus terminal was located on the corner of Pushkinskaya and Pervoya Lineynaya Streets in a small one-story house with an adjoining yard where the buses, and also the city taxi cabs, were parked.

[redacted] the following bus connections from Georgiyevsk:

 - e. To Mineral'nyye Vody. One bus every 2 to 3 hours.
44. Out-of-town Roads. The highways to Pyatigorsk and Stavropol were about 7-8 meters wide (2 lanes), asphalted roads. All other out-of-town roads are two-lane improved field roads (graviynyye).
45. Bridges. There is one railroad bridge near the meat packing plant (Myasokombinat) and one highway bridge near Krasnaya Kumka on the road to Vorontsovka, and one wooden bridge over the Kuma River in Podgornoye on the highway to Mineral'nyye Vody.

It stopped in Georgiyevsk for about 15 minutes. All of the above mentioned connections were operated by conventional (non-electric) locomotives. The entrance to the platform was not guarded; the tickets were checked on the trains.

47. The passenger terminal was located 3 kilometers from downtown, at the end of Inindzhiyevskaya Street. The terminal was a small one-story building, with a ticket counter, waiting room, restaurant, barber shop, book stand, hand luggage checking counter (kamera khraneniya), militia and lavatories. There were 5 tracks running parallel to the terminal building. On the terminal square is situated a small one-story house, half of which accommodates the baggage office (bagazhnaya kassa) and another half occupied by the gorodskaya kassa (advance booking office). There was a 2 Ruble commission charge for the purchase of a railroad ticket to any destination in the Soviet Union, when purchased at the gorkassa; in spite of this, many people preferred to use this service in order to avoid long lines in front of the terminal ticket counter on the day of the trip. No documents were necessary for obtaining a railroad ticket at gorkassa. There was also no time limit for purchasing the tickets, they could be obtained on any day previous to departure day. The freight station was located about one kilometer from the passenger terminal. Opposite the freight station were located Leskhoz (Forest Economy Office) and a few unidentified baza's (warehouses). German Occupation:

57. In 1942 Georgiyevsk was occupied by the Germans for a period of 5 months. All important Soviet functionaries and a majority of Jews were evacuated. Prior to this evacuation, all stores were burned down. For one week there was no government, either German or Soviet, in town, then the Germans moved in. Prior to occupying the city, they dropped three bombs which fell on the railroad station, on voyenkomat, and on a refrigerated warehouse (kholodil'nik) near MTS, in the vicinity of the railroad station. Two days after the Germans occupied the town, all remaining Jews were ordered to the komendantur, with 16 kg. of luggage per person, and all were deported to an unknown destination. No one ever returned. The German authorities established an employment office at the location of the present State Bank on Oktyabr'skaya Street. All factories and shops continued production at the normal rate. Many people opened small business enterprises (stores, stands, shops) getting first a license from the German authorities. Young people were sent, some by recruitment, some by force, to labor camps in Germany. From this number, only a few girls returned in 1945-46. The children of Iranian citizens were not taken to German labor camps.
58. The Germans established local police force and as its chief appointed a German of Soviet origin, formerly a bookkeeper with the oil factory; he was released by the Germans from a Soviet jail. Later he evacuated with the Germans, as did all the local functionaries, who had been appointed to their positions in the town government by the Germans. During the 5 months occupation, the only executions carried out was when 7 former Soviet activists were executed at one time; among these was the director of the brewery and the chairman of Gortorg (City Sales), a former partisan of the civil war. The group was executed in the countryside, and after the war a monument in memory of this execution was erected in front of the Raykom building.
59. The Soviet army bombed the town several times during German occupation and damaged a number of buildings which were all completely restored [REDACTED] There was no fighting for the town proper at the time of the German retreat. The Germans left at night and at dawn the Soviets, on motorcycles, entered the town quickly. Some of the people who possessed the German-issued licenses for operating small business enterprises were arrested (and some are still imprisoned) or deported. Some of them [REDACTED] were fined as high as 50,000 Rubles, but later most of these astronomical fines were silently cancelled by the government. [REDACTED] never [REDACTED] anyone in town who was sentenced to death for collaboration with the Germans.
